TREATY ON EXTRADITION BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND JAPAN

[FOREIGN LANGUAGE TEXT OMITTED]

TEXT:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

CONSIDERING THAT:

The Treaty on Extradition between the United States of America and Japan, together with a related exchange of notes, was signed at Tokyo on March 3, 1978, the text of which, in the English and Japanese languages, is hereto annexed;

The Senate of the United States of America by its resolution of November 30, 1979, two-thirds of the Senators present concurring therein, gave its advice and consent to ratification of the Treaty, together with a related exchange of notes;

The Treaty, together with a related exchange of notes, was ratified by the President of the United States of America [*2] on December 13, 1979, in pursuance of the advice and consent of the Senate, and was duly ratified on the part of Japan;

It is provided in Article XVI of the Treaty that the Treaty shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of the instruments of ratification;

The instruments of ratification of the Treaty were exchanged at Washington on February 25, 1980; and accordingly the Treaty, together with the exchange of notes, will enter into force on March 26, 1980;

Now, THEREFORE, I, Jimmy Carter, President of the United States of America, proclaim and make public the Treaty, together with a related exchange of notes, to the end that they shall be observed and fulfilled with good faith on and after March 26, 1980, by the United States of America and by the citizens of the United States of America and all other persons subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have signed this proclamation and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the city of Washington this fourth day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred eighty and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred fourth. [*3]

[SEAL]

The United States of America and Japan,

Desiring to make more effective the cooperation of the two countries for the repression of crime,

Have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I

Each Contracting Party undertakes to extradite to the other Party, in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty, any person found in its territory and sought by the other Party for prosecution, for trial, or to execute punishment for any offense specified in paragraph 1 of Article II. When the offense was committed outside the territory of the requesting Party, the conditions specified in paragraph 1 of Article VI, inter alia, shall be applied.

ARTICLE II

1. Extradition shall be granted in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty for any offense listed in the Schedule annexed to this Treaty, which forms an integral part of this Treaty, when such an offense is punishable by the laws of both Contracting Parties by death, by life imprisonment, or by deprivation of liberty for a period of more than one year; or for any other offense when such an offense is punishable by the federal laws of the United States and by the laws of Japan by death, by life imprisonment, or by deprivation of liberty for a [*4] period of more than one year.

Extradition shall be granted for any offense of which one of the above-mentioned offenses is a substantial element, even if, for purposes of granting federal jurisdiction to the United States Government, interstate transporting, or the use of the mails or other interstate facilities is also an element of the specific offense.

2. In the case in which the person sought has been sentenced by a court of the requesting Party for any offense to which paragraph 1 applies, extradition shall be granted only if the person has been sentenced to death or if the sentence remaining to be served is at least four months.

ARTICLE III

Extradition shall be granted only if there is sufficient evidence to prove either that there is probable cause to suspect, according to the laws of the requested Party, that the person sought has committed the offense for which extradition is requested or that the person sought is the person convicted by a court of the requesting Party.

ARTICLE IV

1. Extradition shall not be granted under this Treaty in any of the following circumstances:

(1) When the offense for which extradition is requested is a political offense or when it appears [*5] that the request for extradition is made with a view to prosecuting, trying or punishing the person sought for a political offense. If any question arises as to the application of this provision, the decision of the requested Party shall prevail.

(2) When the person sought has been prosecuted or has been tried and convicted or acquitted by the requested Party for the offense for which extradition is requested.

(3) In the case of a request for extradition emanating from Japan, when the prosecution of the offense for which extradition is requested would be barred by lapse of time, under the laws of the United States.

(4) In the case of a request for extradition emanating from the United States, when the imposition or the execution of punishment for the offense for which extradition is requested would be barred by reasons prescribed under the laws of Japan, including lapse of time;

(a) if Japan were to have jurisdiction over the offense, or

(b) if Japan in fact has such jurisdiction and the trial were to be held in its court.

2. The requested Party may refuse extradition when the person sought has been tried and acquitted, or has undergone the execution of punishment in a third [*6] State for the offense for which extradition is requested.

3. When the person sought has been prosecuted or has not undergone the execution of punishment in the territory of the requested Party for an offense other than that for which extradition is requested, the requested Party may defer his surrender until the conclusion of the trial and the full execution of any punishment he may be or may have been imposed.

ARTICLE V

The requested Party shall not be bound to extradite its own nationals, but it shall have the power to extradite them in its discretion.

ARTICLE VI

1. When the offense for which extradition is requested has been committed outside the territory of the requesting Party, the requested Party shall grant extradition if the laws of that Party provide for the punishment of such an offense committed outside its territory, or if the offense has been committed by a national of the requesting Party.

2. For the purposes of this Treaty, the territory of a Contracting Party means all areas of land, water and airspace under the sovereignty or authority of that Contracting Party, including any vessel registered in that Contracting Party, and any aircraft registered in that Contracting [*7] Party provided that the aircraft is in flight. For the purposes of this provision an aircraft shall be considered to be in flight at any time from the moment when all its external doors are closed following embarkation until the moment when any such door is opened for disembarkation.

ARTICLE VII

1. The requesting Party shall not, except in any of the following circumstances, detain, prosecute, try nor punish a person surrendered under this Treaty for an offense other than that for which extradition has been granted, nor extradite him to a third State, provided that these stipulations shall not apply to offenses committed after the extradition:

(1) When he has left the territory of the requesting Party after his extradition and has voluntarily returned to it.

(2) When he has not left the territory of the requesting Party within forty-five days from the day when he has been set free to do so.

(3) When the requested Party has consented to his detention, prosecution, trial or punishment for an offense other than that for which extradition has been granted or to his extradition to a third State.

2. The requesting Party may detain, prosecute, try or punish the person surrendered under [*8] this Treaty for any offense for which extradition is to be granted in accordance with paragraph 1 of Article II, in so far as such measures are instituted upon the basic facts which constitute the offense for which extradition has been granted.

ARTICLE VIII

1. The request for extradition shall be made through the diplomatic channel.

2. The request for extradition shall be accompanied by:

(a) Documents which describe the identity of the person sought;

(b) A statement of the facts of the case;

(c) The texts of the laws describing the essential elements and the designation of the offense for which extradition is requested;

(d) The texts of the laws describing the punishment for the offense; and

(e) The texts of the laws describing the time limit on the prosecution or the execution of punishment for the offense.

3. When the request for extradition relates to a person who has not yet been convicted, it shall be accompanied by:

(a) A copy of the warrant of arrest issued by a judge or other judicial officer of the requesting Party;

(b) Evidence proving that the person sought is the person to whom the warrant of arrest refers; and

(c) Such evidence as would provide [*9] probable cause to suspect, according to the laws of the requested Party, that the person sought has committed the offense for which extradition is requested.

4. When the request for extradition relates to a convicted person, it shall be accompanied by:

(a) A copy of the judgment of conviction imposed by a court of the requesting Party;

(b) Evidence proving that the person sought is the person to whom the conviction refers; and

- (c) (i) A copy of the warrant of arrest, if the convicted person was not sentenced; or
- (ii) A copy of the sentence imposed and a statement showing to what extent the sentence has not been carried out, if the convicted person was sentenced.

5. The request for extradition shall be accompanied by all other information as may be required by the laws of the requested Party.

6. All the documents to be submitted by the requesting Party in accordance with the provisions of this Treaty shall be duly certified as required by the laws of the requested Party, and accompanied by a duly certified translation in the language of the requested Party.

7. If the executive authority of the requested Party considers that the information furnished in support [*10] of the request for extradition of a person sought is not sufficient to fulfill the requirements of this Treaty, that authority shall so notify the requesting Party, in order to enable the requesting Party to submit additional information before that authority determines whether to submit the request to a court of the requested Party. That authority may fix a time limit for the submission of such information.

ARTICLE IX

1. In case of urgency the requested Party may provisionally detain the person to be sought when the requesting Party submits an application for provisional detention through the diplomatic channel, notifying the requested Party that a warrant of arrest has been issued or a sentence imposed for an offense for which extradition is to be granted in accordance with paragraph 1 of Article II and assuring the requested Party that a request for extradition will be made. The application for provisional detention shall describe the identity of the person to be sought and the facts of the case, and shall contain such further information as may be required by the laws of the requested Party.

2. If the requesting Party fails to present the request for extradition within forty-five [*11] days from the date of provisional detention, the person detained shall be set at liberty, provided that this stipulation shall not prevent the requested Party from instituting a proceeding with a view to extraditing the person sought if a request for extradition is subsequently received.

ARTICLE X

When a person sought advises a court or other competent authorities of the requested Party that he waives his rights to internal procedures required for his extradition, that Party shall take all necessary measures to expedite the extradition to the extent permitted under its laws.

ARTICLE XI

The requested Party, upon receiving requests from the other Contracting Party and from a third State or States for the extradition of the same person either for the same offense or for different offenses, shall determine to which of the requesting States it will extradite that person.

ARTICLE XII

1. The requested Party shall promptly communicate to the requesting Party through the diplomatic channel the decision on the request for extradition.
2. If an order to surrender has been issued by the competent authority of the requested Party and the requesting Party fails to receive the person sought [*12] within such time as may be stipulated by the laws of the requested Party, it may set him at liberty and may subsequently refuse to extradite that person for the same offense. The requesting Party shall promptly remove the person received from the territory of the requested Party.

ARTICLE XIII

To the extent permitted under the laws of the requested Party and subject to the right of third parties, all articles acquired as a result of the offense or which may be required as evidence shall be surrendered if extradition is granted.

ARTICLE XIV

1. The requested Party shall make all necessary arrangements with respect to internal procedures, including the detention of the person sought, arising out of the request for extradition and bear the expenses by reason thereof, provided that expenses incurred for the transportation of the person ordered to be surrendered shall be paid by the requesting Party.
2. The requested Party shall not make any pecuniary claim against the requesting Party by reason of any compensation paid to a person sought for the damages caused to him by his detention, examination or surrender under the provisions of this Treaty.

ARTICLE XV

1. Each Contracting Party [*13] shall grant to the other Party the right to transport through its territory a person surrendered to the other Party by a third State on request made through the diplomatic channel except in any of the following circumstances:

- (1) When the criminal act which has given rise to the extradition would not constitute an offense under the laws of the Contracting Party through which transit is requested.
- (2) When the criminal act which has given rise to the extradition is a political offense or when it appears that the request for extradition is made with a view to prosecuting, trying or punishing the person surrendered for a political offense. If any question arises as to the application of this provision, the decision of the Contracting Party through which transit is requested shall prevail.

(3) When reasons of public order are opposed to transit.

2. In the case above, the Contracting Party to which extradition has been granted shall reimburse the Contracting Party through whose territory transportation has been made for any expenses incurred by the latter in connection with such transportation.

ARTICLE XVI

1. This Treaty shall be subject to ratification and the instruments of ratification [*14] shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible. It shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the date of the exchange of the instruments of ratification. n1

2. This Treaty shall also apply to any offense specified in paragraph 1 of Article II committed before this Treaty enters into force.

3. On the entry into force of this Treaty, the Treaty of Extradition signed at Tokyo on April 29, 1886 n2 and the Supplementary Convention of Extradition signed at Tokyo on May 17, 1906 n3 between the United States of America and Japan shall terminate, provided that any extradition case pending in the requested Party at the time this Treaty enters into force shall remain subject to the procedures specified in the above-mentioned Treaty of Extradition and the Supplementary Convention of Extradition.

Tokyo, March 3, 1978

Excellency,

I have the honour to refer to the Treaty on Extradition between the United States of America and Japan signed today and to confirm, on behalf of the Government of the United States of America, the following understanding reached between the representatives of the two Governments:

1. The term "arrangements" in Article XIV of this Treaty includes, for the United States of America, arrangements for representation on behalf of the Government of Japan by appropriate legal officers of the United States of America, and for Japan, necessary arrangements to be made by appropriate legal officers of Japan for a request for extradition emanating from the United States of America.

2. Nothing in this Treaty shall affect the [*16] rights and obligations that the Contracting Parties have pursuant to the Agreement under Article VI of the Treaty of Mutual Cooperation and Security between the United States of America and Japan, Regarding Facilities and Areas and the Status of United States Armed Forces in Japan signed at Washington on January 19, 1960. n1

n1 TIAS 4510; 11 UST 1652.

-----End Footnotes-----

I should be grateful if Your Excellency would confirm the foregoing understanding on behalf of the Government of Japan.

I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to Your Excellency the assurance of my highest consideration.
